

Abstract

For interim storage for stacks of plastic bags, it is proposed to wind these up with the aid of a single film, or two films, to form a roll. The bag stacks here are oriented such that their opening sides, which preferably have a tab with holes, are oriented forward, as seen in the unwinding direction. During the unwinding operation, a gripping means can grip the leading edge of the bags and feed the same to the packaging machine.